CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

TERRY O'REILLY

Good evening and welcome to Frederick P. Rose Hall, at Jazz at Lincoln Center, as the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences celebrates the best in Sports Television and the 45th Annual Sports Emmy® Awards.

Each year we gather at this time to shine the Emmy spotlight on the best moments in Sports TV, this year across 46 categories. And we're thrilled tonight to also celebrate the many years and many outstanding performances of James Brown with our Academy's Lifetime Achievement Award.

In a world filled with chaos and uncertainty, there's one constant that brings America together: sports on television. When we tune in to watch our favorite athletes, we're not just spectators; we feel the visceral thrill of victory and the agony of defeat with them. It's more than just a game; it's a shared experience that transcends borders, cultures, and languages.

George Will once noted that "Sports serves society by providing vivid examples of excellence," and that is what we are here to celebrate and honor tonight: excellence in this amazing industry.

Thank you for being a part of this very special event. Enjoy the show, and congratulations to all being honored this evening.

PRESIDENT'S WELCOME

ADAM SHARP

Every sport has its seasons. Whether it is the call back to spring training in the warmth of the southern sun, or the fading summer sunlight over the gridiron, fans count the days to the start of their new year.

For our team, the Emmy® season begins anew each winter with the opening of the Sports Emmy competition, and truly springs to life tonight at our first ceremony of the year. We are thrilled to welcome you to this 45th Annual Sports Emmy Awards event.

Our roster has changed. Steve Head has moved to the front of the starting lineup, succeeding Justine Gubar as our Head of Sports. We thank Steve and the entire NATAS team for the herculean effort behind the presentation of these awards, and wish Justine all the best in her new adventures.

Most of all, we thank you. Thank you for continuing to excite us, dazzle us, and entertain us. Thank you for continuing to innovate and educate. Thank you for making great television that we get to enjoy as viewers and the privilege to honor tonight.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT HONOREE JAMES BROWN

By Jonathan Jones

Michael Jordan had just made the biggest shot of his life up to that point, and within 20 seconds, James Brown was by his side.

Jordan's game-winning shot over Craig Ehlo downed the Cavaliers in the decisive Game 5 of the 1989 playoffs and gave Jordan, then a 26-year-old MVP with little playoff success, a breakthrough moment in his career.

J.B., serving as the sideline reporter for CBS's turn at NBA coverage, didn't opt for the banal how does it feel? line of questioning. The hackneyed what was going through your head? didn't go through J.B.'s head.

"There's a pregame ritual you go through," J.B. said to His Airness. "You're back in the locker room by yourself. There's a song that plays and you said that was going to be your theme. What's that song you listen to?"

"Anita Baker. 'Give It Your Best,'" Jordan says. "Just go out and give it your all. And that's what I did."

The recipient of the Lifetime Achievement honor, James Brown is a storyteller. He's happy to set you up to tell a story, like in the case of Michael Jordan. He's thrilled to tell a story about you, as anyone who knows him can attest. But the gregarious, 6-foot-5-ish CBS broadcaster with a lifetime of stories — he's hosted a record 11 Super Bowls, after all — would rather not make the story about himself.

Take his short-lived NBA career. The Atlanta Hawks selected him with a fourth-round pick in the 1973 draft. Pete Maravich would catch martial arts flicks with J.B. and tell him he could play in the league if he kept working at it. Red Auerbach, the legendary Celtics coach and executive, encouraged him to hone his skills overseas for a year or two and then he'd have a secure spot in the NBA.

"But I said, you know what?," J.B. says today. "My parents worked too hard for me to get an opportunity to be successful in the game of life, and I'm not going to go over there and come back and the best I can be is the seventh or eighth man on the bench."

After a brief stint in the corporate world with his Harvard degree, J.B. turned to sports media in the D.C. area and immediately made an impact. He was one of two reporters for whom famously intimidating Georgetown coach John Thompson would break his media rules. He won't credit the years of work reporting fairly and accurately on the Hoyas as the reason for his access.

No, it was all about Coach Thompson.

"He trusted us, and at certain games, when he had the press barred from that locker room, he had Mike Wilbon and I back there when Patrick Ewing was on a training table being tended to," J.B. says. "And that's how we developed the relationship, because they saw that Coach Thompson allowed the both of us to come in there. He wanted them to see successful young Black men at the time and what they could do as well, too. It was all about visualizing."

J.B. AT 60 MINUTES LEADING INTO HIS MICHAEL VICK INTERVIEW

J.B. BENDING DOWN TO TALK TO HIS LATE MOTHER MARY ANN

His CBS career saw him cover college and pro hoops, baseball and, of course, the NFL. If J.B. thought he was just doing football when he left for the nascent FOX channel in the mid-90s, he got reality-checked into the glass when he was named the studio host for FOX's NHL coverage.

J.B. WITH HIS FRIEND, HALL OF FAME COACH TONY DUNGY

He “studied assiduously” ahead of his debut so that he could do “a credible job,” he says. At a press conference announcing the coverage, J.B. disarmed the media by making some early admissions.

“I understand hockey wasn’t big in my neighborhood,” J.B. told them to draw a laugh. “And I do understand that the only thing I have in common with the sport is the color of the puck.”

He learned just how credible a job he had done at the 1995 Stanley Cup Finals, when a group of young white fans came to the set holding a sign reading: JAMES BROWN. GODFATHER OF GOAL.

“That... that touched my heart,” he says.

Telling a story means sometimes having the humility to not actually tell the story with your own voice, which is what J.B. did in 1998 when he moderated the first sit-down between Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan since the attack on Kerrigan at the 1994 Winter Olympics.

Seated between the two, Brown listened patiently as Harding apologized for “being in the wrong place, at the wrong time, around the wrong people.” He let the silence — and Kerrigan’s face — do the talking. And then with each successive question to Harding, Brown showed the incredulity of her innocence plea.

J.B. WITH HIS WIFE DOROTHY AND DAUGHTER KATRINA

Perhaps J.B.’s best work came in 2009 when he interviewed Michael Vick in the quarterback’s first interview since his imprisonment for dogfighting. J.B., sitting down with Vick for 60 Minutes, doesn’t let Vick off the hook for anything.

He was unrelenting in his questioning and his follow-ups. He wouldn’t accept just any answer because Vick said it. In football, they’d call what J.B. put on camera “teach tape.” Journalism professors could craft a lesson off the 15-minute segment alone.

But the interview nearly didn’t happen. Vick’s team was pushing back on J.B.’s line of questioning. Eventually Tony Dungy, the Hall of Fame football coach, came in to mediate.

Dungy was serving as a mentor to Vick, and he has been a close friend of Brown’s for more than three decades.

As J.B. tells it, Dungy heard everyone’s concerns, took a moment and then looked Vick in the eyes. He told the quarterback he needed to answer the questions that J.B. planned to ask him.

“Now, once he did that, I was able to exhale and ask Michael all of the right questions that a journalist should ask for Michael to give the answers.”

“I said, ‘Michael, this isn’t about me. I don’t need this. I don’t need this to boost my profile on anything. I just want the truth.’ And he gave us the truth, and it was awesome.” ●

SPORTS EMMYS®

TONIGHT'S HOST

THE KID MERO

Hailing from the vibrant streets of the Bronx, The Kid Mero has emerged as an entertainment tour de force. His unapologetic wit, razor-sharp cultural commentary, and ability to comedically dissect life's complexities have captivated audiences.

After recently being selected as Chair Honoree by the Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute for his dedication to the Latino community, Mero is crafting his next literary work, a comedic exploration of parenting, while also developing the video version of his culturally resonant podcast, "Victory Light."

From hosting the profane and profound "Victory Light" podcast — where he wields humor as a powerful tool to dissect geopolitics and celebrity culture — to co-hosting with NBA legend Carmelo Anthony on "7pm in Brooklyn" — where he curates captivating conversations for sports enthusiasts and casual fans alike — Mero's fearless authenticity and uncompromising comedic prowess solidify his cultural icon status, inspiring a new generation of voices to emerge and shatter conventions.

2024 SPORTS GOLD AND SILVER CIRCLE INDUCTEES

SPORTS EMMYS®

Tonight's inductees in the Gold & Silver Circle have set standards of achievement we all hope to emulate. A professional society of honor, and one of the highest tributes bestowed by NATAS, the Gold Circle recognizes professionals who have performed distinguished service within the television industry for at least 50 years. Silver Circle inductees are recognized for their enduring contributions over 25 years or more. These individuals are selected for more than their longevity — they have made a significant impact on the vitality of our industry and those who work in it every day.

GOLD CIRCLE

JOHN GILMARTIN

A producer, director and mentor who taught countless professionals how to turn a perfect sports package for live television, John Gilmartin has supported and promoted some of the best talent on TV. He has been a teacher to peers and students alike, across the 50 years of his storied career. With each story he has touched and shaped the storyteller. Perhaps most memorable about his style is his curious and patient way. From Super Bowls to Triple Crowns to World Series, this Gold Circle inductee has left a mark on the programs, the networks and the sports he has covered. But most of all he has impacted the broadcast community.

BOB STENNER

He's been the voice in the ear of some of the biggest names in sports broadcasting. His incredible work ethic has brought his sports programs to the top of the heap as well. His experience (starting in the mailroom at CBS) eventually led Bob to covering The NFL, NASCAR and The NBA. Of his leadership, peers say "Any game you worked with Bob at the helm carried with it an aura of top-level preparedness and approach." He's the kind of producer that talent says makes them shine, everytime.

SILVER CIRCLE

DREW ESOCOFF

Known for his leadership on broadcasts from Triple Crowns to Olympic gold medals, Drew Esocoff is the kind of director that looks out for his crew. Many camera operators have continued to work under Drew's direction for decades. He looks out for the team off the clock as well. In 2020 when Covid halted many productions and dramatically altered the ones that did make air, Drew teamed up with producer Fred Gaudelli to form a nonprofit to help the crews who were forced to stay home. Their Sunday Night Football Fund reached beyond the booth and met the needs of the crew in unprecedented times.

FRED GAUDELLI

Fred Gaudelli has been said to have a PhD in sports television production, having produced thirty-three seasons of NFL games including seven Super Bowls. Always a leader mindful of the team, Fred and director Drew Esocoff founded The Sunday Night Football Fund in 2020 to support crews during Covid work stoppages. His broadcast team says he's a true coach and mentor.

PAM OLIVER

For nearly forty years, Pam Oliver has earned the respect and admiration of leagues, players and viewers thanks to her straightforward and honest reporting style. Perhaps that's because of her early experience working in local news. Whether it's quick thinking from the sidelines, or longer format reporting, Pam's talent and drive are second to none. She served as a moderator under the Obama administration, prioritizing healthy kids and safe sports.

DAVID ROBERTS

A true visionary and leader, David Roberts is a talented producer and an advocate. The Head of Event and Studio Production advocates for diversity — male, female, people of color — both on-air and behind the scenes and has mentored many individuals who are making an impact for their respective companies in the ongoing journey towards a more diverse workforce. David's philosophy is "you cannot serve any market if you don't have quality diversity in every area of an organization." David Roberts has inspired and impacted broadcast teams at ESPN and beyond by pouring his passion for the game into the programs and broadcasters that cover it.

SILVER CIRCLE

RENATA SEDZIMIR

Senior Concept Artist and Senior Designer for ESPN, Renata Sedzimir has crafted generations of live-event and studio graphics packages for sports. Her fingerprint has marked coverage from the World Cup to the NFL, across multiple networks. In her nearly three decades as an artist and designer, Renata's brilliant career has been a positive influence on her peers and has left an indelible mark on the programs and viewers she serves.

JACOB SOTO

Engineering Manager Jacob Soto was there from the first-pitch for MLB Network. He spearheaded the "Ballpark Cam" bringing the game closer to at-home fans than ever before. As an army vet, he brings a service-minded approach, focused on training the next generation of broadcasters. Jacob offers a hand up to veterans learning the television business through the MLB Network Army Apprenticeship program.

ABOUT NATAS

The National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences (NATAS) is a service organization dedicated to the advancement of the arts and sciences of television and the promotion of creative leadership for artistic, educational, and technical achievements within the television industry. It recognizes excellence in television with the coveted Emmy® Awards for News & Documentary, Sports, Daytime, and Children's & Family programming, as well as achievements in television Technology & Engineering.

NATAS membership consists of more than 18,000 broadcast and media professionals represented in 19 regional chapters across the country. Beyond awards, NATAS has extensive educational programs including regional student television and its Student Award for Excellence and the National Student Production Awards for outstanding journalistic work by high school students, as well as scholarships, publications, and major activities for both industry professionals and the viewing public.

We proudly congratulate our Sports Emmy® nominees
