A MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

It is my great pleasure to welcome you to our celebration of The 52nd Annual Daytime Emmy® Awards, from the Pasadena Civic Auditorium — a venue that (since 1932) has hosted so many legendary musical and dramatic performances.

We celebrate a number of ‘firsts’ at this year’s Daytime Emmy Gala. It’s our first Daytime Emmy Awards Gala to be held in the month of October; in the past, our celebrations of daytime TV were conducted in the Spring. It’s the first time that we’ve combined the traditional two nights of celebration into a single show. It’s the first time in years we’ve opened the doors to the public as participants in tonight’s Gala. And it’s our first show at Pasadena’s historic Civic Center since 2022.

Tonight, we will celebrate the talents and contributions of more than 200 nominees in 42 categories, with a lucky few going home with our industry’s gold standard: the Emmy Award.

We will also celebrate the contributions of Deborah Norville with our Lifetime Achievement Award, honoring her contributions to our industry. And we will welcome the 2025 class of inductees to our Daytime Gold and Silver Circles, honoring 50 and 25 years of industry service, respectively.

On behalf of our National Board of Trustees, our Academy staff, all the skilled professionals who are working behind the scenes tonight and our more than 18-thousand members from coast to coast, it is our great honor to have you as our guest.

Congratulations to all of tonight’s honorees: nominees and Emmy winners alike. I hope you have a wonderful evening!

Terry O'Reilly
Chair
The National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Welcome, friends and colleagues, to the 52nd Annual Daytime Emmy® Awards.

Tonight, we gather not just to honor outstanding achievement, but to celebrate reunion. For the first time in over forty years, our entire Daytime community — our technical craftspeople, creative artisans, lifestyle storytellers, and dramatic performers — comes together under one roof to celebrate the full spectrum of Daytime television excellence.

This moment brings us back to the historic Pasadena Civic Auditorium for the first time since 2019, welcoming our largest audience since those pre-pandemic days. The fans are here again, too, cheering you on from the balcony.

Through the launch of NATAS national membership — a joint effort with our sister organization, the Television Academy — we stand as one united community. Two Academies, one membership; and more importantly, one purpose. This partnership not only strengthens our academies’ relationship but also amplifies the voice of everyone who creates, innovates and inspires in television.

Thank you for being part of this incredible community; for the stories you tell, and for the craft, care and creativity that make Daytime television such a vital part of our lives.

Enjoy the show!

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT HONOREE

DEBORAH NORVILLE

A LIFE IN TELEVISION, A LEGACY OF RESILIENCE

by Dustin Smith, SMITHHOUSE Strategy

When Deborah Norville learned she would receive the Lifetime Achievement Emmy at the 52nd Annual Daytime Emmy® Awards, her initial reaction was one of disbelief. “It was definitely not something I had on my bingo card,” she says with a laugh. “I was completely taken aback — in the happiest way possible. It makes you stop and think: maybe people were paying attention all these years, and maybe I mattered. Maybe I made an impact.”

That humility, paired with a fierce work ethic and an unshakable sense of integrity, has defined Norville’s more than four decades in television. With 30 years at the helm of Inside Edition, she is the longest-serving anchor in the history of American television. Along the way, she’s navigated breaking news, moments of cultural reckoning and personal challenges, always returning to the core principle that guided her from the start: the work must prove you belong.

BEGINNINGS IN GEORGIA

Norville’s journey started earlier than most. Still a college student at the University of Georgia, she secured an internship at Georgia Public Television covering the state legislature. “We did a one-hour recap every day — before C-SPAN even existed,” she recalls. One afternoon, the wife of a local station manager happened to tune in and told her husband to “look at this girl.” Days later, Norville was on air at the CBS affiliate in Atlanta, reporting her first news story.

She laughs, recalling when she was 19, standing live on camera with President Jimmy Carter at the Martin Luther King Jr. Peace Prize ceremony in Atlanta, where she was covering the event as a college intern. “I don’t remember what he said — I was in shock. But the whole time I was thinking, ‘I’m going to get a job. Somebody’s going to hire me because I have this tape.’” That determination helped her navigate early opportunities and overcome the skepticism of colleagues who told her, “You don’t deserve this job.” She admits, “They weren’t wrong — I didn’t have the experience. But I was working to deserve it. And in a way, I’ve spent my whole career proving that I belonged.”

BREAKING NEWS AND BREAKING BARRIERS

From early live shots to network anchor desks, Norville built a reputation for being ready when the unexpected occurred. As anchor of NBC News at Sunrise in the late 1980s, she found herself solo on air during a breaking crisis: a United Airlines jet returning to Honolulu with a large hole in its fuselage. With no scripts or wire copy, she filled the broadcast from memory, recalling recent NTSB findings and explaining the aviation science behind the unfolding emergency.

“Tom Brokaw arrived ready to take over, but he said, ‘Norville’s doing fine — let her stay,’” she remembers. For her, the lesson was clear: “You can only wing it with facts. That’s been true my whole career.”

It was a principle she carried into her three decades at Inside Edition. Though the show started with a reputation for sensationalism, Norville insisted on a higher standard. “There was a story called ‘Miss March Goes to Jamaica.’ I finally said, ‘If this is the kind of story we’re doing, I can’t introduce it.’ To their credit, the producers listened, and the story never aired.” Instead, Norville helped steer the program toward stories of substance — undercover investigations, consumer protections and the human-interest features that became its hallmark.

Through consistency and credibility, Norville built a strong connection with viewers. “People knew they could tune in, and I would be there. Familiarity breeds loyalty,” she says. That loyalty helped Inside

DEBORAH NORVILLE REPORTING ON 9/11 FOR INSIDE EDITION

Edition persevere through moments like the COVID-19 pandemic, when Norville anchored from her living room, propping her camera on a stack of coffee table books and filling the screen with stories of helpers and hope. “That was our finest hour. It gave the program a new lease on life.”

RESILIENCE AND REINVENTION

Norville openly discusses her challenging moments, especially her tumultuous time at Today. When she was suddenly dismissed, critics argued her career was finished. “One columnist wrote that I had been ‘used up and left for dead on the side of the road.’ And he wasn’t wrong. But guess what? I got back on my feet.” She went on to launch a successful radio show, with Oprah Winfrey as her first guest and Barbara Walters as her second. “The women who were the giants in our industry were there for me at my lowest point. I’ll be forever grateful to them.”

That gratitude became more than just a personal value; it turned into a book. Thank You Power: Making the Science of Gratitude Work for You became a New York Times bestseller and was translated into more than a dozen languages. In Seoul, South Korea, it even inspired a public “Gratitude Wall” where people posted notes of thanks. “That was sparked by my book,” Norville says. “Moments like that are gas in your tank. They keep you going.”

LESSONS FOR THE NEXT GENERATION

Norville credits her curiosity for sustaining her career. From her fourth-grade teacher, who turned her endless questions into research assignments, to her own restless pursuit of new projects, including her upcoming game show, The Perfect Line, Norville has always believed that answers are there if you’re willing to put in the work.

It’s a lesson she hopes to pass on to her children and the next generation of journalists. “Life kicks you to the curb sometimes. You can stay in the gutter, or you can dust yourself off and move on.” In fact, she once wrote and recorded a song for Inside Edition called “Keep On Moving On.” Its chorus, she says, captures what she’d like her legacy to be: Don’t accept defeat, just keep moving.

A LIFETIME OF TELEVISION

Looking ahead, Norville remains optimistic about the future of television, despite the fact that streaming is reshaping the landscape. “Storytelling has been democratized — everyone can be a storyteller now. But I believe in broadcast. I believe in free television. I haven’t given up on the medium, because television gave me the life I live.”

And now, with a Lifetime Achievement Emmy® on the horizon, she pauses to reflect. “It still feels unexpected. But maybe that’s the lesson. You do the work, you keep moving forward, and one day you realize — you did make a difference.” ●

2025 DAYTIME GOLD AND SILVER CIRCLE INDUCTEES

Gold & Silver Circle inductees have set standards of achievement we all hope to emulate. A professional society of honor, and one of the highest tributes bestowed by NATAS, the Gold Circle recognizes professionals who have performed distinguished service within the television industry for at least 50 years. Silver Circle inductees are recognized for their enduring contributions over 25 years or more. These individuals are selected for more than their longevity — they have made an indelible impact on the vitality of our industry and those who work in it every day.

GOLD CIRCLE

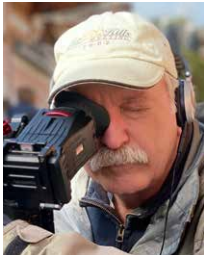

JANE ELLIOT

For sixty years, Jane Elliot has been one of daytime television's most unforgettable voices. Best known for originating the role of Tracy Quartermaine on General Hospital, she brought wit, intelligence and emotional depth to a character that redefined the genre. Across General Hospital, All My Children, Days of Our Lives, Guiding Light and The City — where she also served as producer — Jane helped shape the very language of serialized storytelling. A Daytime Emmy® Award winner and multiple Soap Opera Digest Award honoree, she is celebrated for performances that are layered, unpredictable and deeply human. Offscreen, she has long been a mentor and advocate, supporting younger actors and championing authenticity in storytelling. "Jane takes the craft seriously and lifts everyone around her," says General Hospital co-star Amanda Setton. "She leads by example — with honesty, wit and quiet strength."

SILVER CIRCLE

GREG BARNA

Greg Barna has spent a lifetime behind the lens, transforming ordinary moments into luminous, visual storytelling. A four-time Daytime Emmy Award-winning Director of Photography, his work spans Travels with Darley, Equitrekking, PBS NewsHour, Avec Eric, Great Performances, The Oprah Winfrey Show, Martha Stewart Living and several Bill Moyers programs. His credits also include projects for Amazon, Johnson & Johnson and Christie's. Renowned for his calm precision and cinematic eye, Greg has earned multiple Emmy, Telly and CINE Golden Eagle Awards. Beyond television, he mentors aspiring filmmakers through County College of Morris and Mendham TV, where he served on the board. "Greg has an amazing eye and a rare ability to see details others miss," says Travels with Darley host and executive producer Darley Newman. "He's creative, collaborative and a joy to work with."

STAR JONES

Star Jones is a force — equal parts intellect, compassion and trailblazing spirit. A former New York City homicide prosecutor turned Emmy-nominated broadcaster, she made television history as one of the original co-hosts of The View, later earning induction into the Broadcasting & Cable Hall of Fame. Today, as Host and Executive Producer of Divorce Court, she continues to bring empathy and authority to one of daytime's most enduring franchises. Offscreen, Star has used her platform to advance health equity and women's empowerment. A heart surgery survivor and longtime National Volunteer for the American Heart Association, she founded the Black Women's Leadership Collective and the Brown Girls Fundraising Collective to uplift the next generation of changemakers. "Star doesn't just break barriers — she builds bridges," says ColorComm founder Lauren Wesley Wilson. "She leads with purpose, authenticity and heart."

KATE LINDER

Kate Linder has been the beating heart of The Young and the Restless for more than forty years. Since 1982, her portrayal of Esther Valentine has embodied humor, humanity and hope — earning her a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame and a permanent place in television history. Offscreen, Kate's energy and empathy shine just as brightly. She has served as Governor of the Television Academy's Performers Peer Group, a SAG-AFTRA board member, and a passionate advocate for ALS research, veterans, and disability inclusion through her work with the March of Dimes. "Kate is a true champion of the daytime drama community who takes great pride in advocating for her peers," said Josh Griffith, Executive Producer and Head Writer, The Young and the Restless. "She is a true role model due to her service and commitment." Admired for her warmth and advocacy, Kate Linder continues to elevate daytime television both on and off screen.

JAMES REYNOLDS

James "Jim" Reynolds is a storyteller, a veteran and a steadfast presence in the world of daytime drama. Since 1981, his portrayal of Abe Carver on Days of our Lives has made him the longest-running Black actor in the same role in television history. A U.S. Marine Corps veteran and former journalist, Reynolds brings a quiet power and moral clarity to every performance. His 2018 Daytime Emmy win for Outstanding Lead Actor marked a historic milestone, adding to a career of artistic integrity and social impact. Beyond the screen, he co-founded the Fremont Centre Theatre in South Pasadena and continues to advocate for veterans and underrepresented voices in the arts. "Jim is a mentor in every sense — steady, generous and full of heart," says former Days of our Lives producer Janet Spellman-Drucker. "He brings his best to every set and lifts everyone around him."

JUDY BLYE WILSON

Judy Blye Wilson had an instinct for magic — the rare ability to see not just an actor's talent, but their potential. As Casting Director for All My Children, The Young and the Restless and other beloved series, she discovered and nurtured some of daytime's most iconic performers. Known for her warmth and boundless curiosity, Judy treated every audition like a collaboration, every performer like family. "Judy went out of her way to watch everything, everywhere," recalls actor Thorsten Kaye. "Every play, every movie, every student film that had a potential gem — she made our show what it was." To her colleagues, she was a source of humor, generosity and light — a creative architect of daytime television's enduring success, whose legacy lives on through every actor she believed in and every story she helped bring to life.
